

Klipsch Kicks Off 'Keepers of the Sound' Video Series with Butch Walker

September 19, 2018

Indianapolis, IN, Sept. 19, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Klipsch®, a tech-driven audio company, is pleased to introduce its new 'Keepers of the Sound®' video series, which was inspired by audio pioneer and company founder Paul W. Klipsch, who created speakers to reproduce the power, detail and emotion of the live music experience in the home. The video series celebrates pioneers of all crafts — spotlighting those who've stayed true to a vision of preserving their rich heritage, while adapting to today's tech-driven world. These pioneers give insights into how listening to music through Klipsch speakers drives their spirit and their endeavors.

Klipsch®

A VOXX INTERNATIONAL COMPANY

"This video series showcases pioneering artists with values and principles near and dear to the heart of the Klipsch brand," said Paul Jacobs, president and CEO of Klipsch. "Like Klipsch, they are authentic, uncompromising on quality, and always remain true to their core values. They work to create powerful, emotional experiences for their fans, and Klipsch strives to recreate the same emotional experiences through our speakers and headphones."

The first installment in the video series features legendary American singer-songwriter and producer Butch Walker. Walker played in various metal/alternative bands from 1980- 2001 and began his solo career in 2002. He was named Rolling Stone's "Producer of the Year" in 2005. Walker performed on, wrote and produced albums for artists including Taylor Swift, Train, Pink, Avril Lavigne, Keith Urban, Katy Perry, The Struts, Panic! At the Disco, Pete Dinklage, Harry Connick Jr., Weezer, Fall Out Boy, and many more.

Butch Walker grew up when audio was primarily analog-driven and he prefers to make music and create his sound by hand. His relentless attention to detail in his recording process captures a rich, full spectrum of audio, which in turn, offers a better listening experience. This spirit embodies the principles that Klipsch stands for.
